

Quality Assurance and Certification in the Health and Social Care Sector Policy

Crossfields Institute does not routinely quality assure or validate training and education in the health and social care sector unless there is an existing statutory regulatory or self-regulatory body in place with oversight for the profession. In the case of training and education in this sector Crossfields Institute are validating the educational process undertaken, not the health and social care approaches involved. Post-qualifying and postgraduate specialisms already regulated through other statutory bodies may be suitable for Crossfields Institute quality assurance and certification.

Any applications for validation and quality assurance of training in the health and social care sector will be subject to scrutiny by the Crossfields Institute Board of Trustees.
